Understanding The Jesus Perspective

Are you true to yourselves? Remember that willingness because you are experiencing a physical reality that needs more than words. It needs your actions. It is your actions that is the language of physical reality and in taking the actions that are aligned with your passion.

James 1:22
But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves.

The message from your soul about who you are, that through your actions is how you actually respond to the soul and say, I heard you. I am demonstrating that I heard you. And therefore the soul can say I will send you more opportunities to act on your passion.
To be the living example that you can be so that others can see through you themselves more clearly as well.

Because what are we? This is an important question to answer. And the answer is, I am you from another point of view and you are me from another point of view, that is what we are.

James 2:1
My brethren, have not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory, with respect of persons.

Ponder that I am you from another point of view. This is the beginning of dialogue, of understanding of relationship. Of peaceful communication and coexistence.
I am you from another point of view. What does your point of view have to teach me about who I am and who we are together, and what is the true core of the dialogue.
We need to have that which can create peace upon this world and harmony within our hearts.

Begin with that understanding in every dialogue and every connection in every relationship in every communication that you have with anyone and anything, I am you from another point of view, you are me from another point of view.
What is the reason for the difference in the point of view? What is the true, deep-seated reason why the points of view are different. Let's find out what the core desire truly is with the core need truly is, because when you remove all of the surface division, you will usually find that at the core, everyone truly desires the same thing to be loved to be heard, to be counted, to belong. You all have the same reason for the many divisions that exist.
Validate the differences by finding out what is truly common. Beneath those differences, and respect the differences as a new way of looking at something that you may not have considered.

Php 2:2
Fulfil ye my joy, that ye be likeminded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind.

Open up to the idea that everyone is doing their best, whether they know how to do it more positively or negatively, and that by those that demonstrate the idea of what you may perceive to be great negativity are showing you in no uncertain terms very clearly, what it is you actually prefer by contrast, because when the greatest Darkness presents itself, it's much easier by contrast, to see where the light is.
So, use it to your advantage. Instead of creating more strife, more stress, more angst, use it in a positive way. To find the light, to be the light, to reflect the light, to show the light, so that you can illuminate the path more clearly for everyone.

Rom 2:11
For there is no respect of persons with God.

NOTE: Respect from the Greek Concordance;

G4382 προσωπολημψία From G4381; partiality, that is, favoritism: - respect of persons.

God shows no favoritism of persons. (also the above verse - James 1:22)

John 8:12
Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.

Whether they choose to follow that light or not, it's up to them. But at least you have lit the lamp and given them the opportunity. That's all you need to do. Ignite The light.
